Dr. Franklin.—A note in the volume "Diplomacy of the U. States" thus mentions the appearance of Dr. Franklin at the French Court:

"Franklin appeared at court in the dress of an American cultivator. His straight unpowdered hair, his round hat, his brown cloth coat, formed a contrast with the laced and embroidered coats, and the powdered and perfumed heads of the courtiers of Versailles. This novelty turned the enthusiastic heads of the French women.—Elegant entertainments were given to Dr. Franklin, who, to the reputation of a Philosopher, added the patriotic virtues which had invested him with the noble character of an Apostle of Liberty. I was present at one of these entertainments, when the most beautiful woman out of three hundred, was selected to place a crown of laurels upon the white head of the American Philosopher, and two kisses upon his cheeks."

The happy Match.—"Now," said Harry Hemphill to his young wife, when they went to house-keeping, "it is my business to bring money into the house and your's to see that none goes foolishly out of it." This was the agreement with which they set forward in the world. He chose her, first, because he loved her, and in the second place, because he knew she was sensible, economical and industrious—just the reasons which influence a sensible man in his choice now. And he thought it best that each should have a distinct sphere of action. Their interests were one and indivisible; consequently each had the same motives to act well the allotted part. His business called for his whole attention; he wished therefore to pursue it undistracted by other cares; for himself he looked for happiness only at home, there he expected a supply for all his wants, and he was of course not disposed to spend any thing abroad, in pursuit of what he thought every reasonable man ought to look for in the bosom of his family. Her duties being all domestic, she was able to compass them the better by turning her whole attention to them. Her husband's business-doing habits, his temperate and correct life, had all the power of example, increasing her esteem, and doubling her anxiety to deserve his.

They had married without waiting to get rich. They neither distrusted Providence nor each other. With little besides health and a disposition to improve it, they nevertheless had that strong confidence of final success which prudent resolutions inspire in those who feel that they have perseverance enough to adhere to them. Thus they began the world.

To attach a man to his home, it is necessary that home should have attractions. Harry Hemphill's had. There he sought repose after the toil and weariness of the day; and there he found it. When perplexed, and low spirited, he retired thither, and amid the soothing influence of its quiet and peaceful shades, he forgot the heartlessness of the world and all the wrongs of men. When things went ill with him, he found always a solace in the sunshine of affection, that in the domestic circle beamed upon him and dispelled every cloud from his brow. However others treated him, there all was kindness, confidence and affection; if others deceived him, and hypocrisy with its shameless face, smiled on him to delude and injure him, there all was sincerity—that sincerity of the heart which makes an ends for suffering, and wins the troubled spirit from misanthropy.

Nothing so directly tends to make a good wife, a good housekeeper, a good domestic economist, as that kindness on the part of the husband which speaks the language of approbation, and that careful and well directed industry which thrives and gives strong promise that her care and prudence will have a profitable issue. And Mary Hemphill had this token and this assurance.

Harry devoted himself to business with steady purpose and untiring zeal; he obtained credit by his plain and honest dealing; custom by his faithful punctuality and constant care; friends by his obliging deportment and accommodating disposition. He gained the reputation of being the best workman in the village; none were ever deceived who trusted to his word. He always drove his business a little before hand, for, he said, "things go badly when the cart gets before the horse." I noticed once a little incident which illustrated his character—a thrifty old farmer was accosted in the road at the end of the village by a youngster who was making a great dash in business, and who wanted to loan a few hundred dollars. The wily old man was perfectly ignorant of where it could be had, and slided off from him as soon as he could. He rode directly down to Hemphill's and told him he had a few hundred dollars to loan, and wished he would take it; the payments should be easy—just as would suit. Indeed, replied Harry, you have come to a bad market; I have a little cash to spare myself, and have been looking round these two weeks for a good opportunity of putting it out.

While Harry was prospering in his business, all went like clock work at home; the family expenditures were carefully made; not a farthing was wasted; not a scrap was lost; the furniture was neat and useful, rather than ornamental; the table plain, frugal, but wholesome and well spread; little went either to the seamstress or the tailor; no extravagance in dress; no costly company keeping; no waste of time in ceaseless visiting; and yet the whole neighborhood praised Mary Hemphill and loved her; she was kind without ostentation or sacrifice; sociable without dissipation. And while few people lived more comfortably, none lived more economically.

The results of such management can never disappoint the expectations to which it looks. Even the angry frown of misfortune is almost put at defiance. A vantage ground is soon gained which the storm seldom reaches. And the full reward comes in its proper time to crown the meed of lives thus spent.

The music of Harry's tools was in full play on the morning that I left the village for a distant residence. It was not yet sunrise; and as the coach bore me rapidly past the cool and quiet residence of the villager, I saw the door was open, and the breakfast smoking on the table; Mary, in her neat morning dress and white apron, blooming in health and loveliness, was busy amid her household affairs; and a stranger who chanced to be my fellow passenger to the city, observed it, and said, "there is a thriving family; my word for it." And he spoke well. There are certain signs always perceptible about those who are working things right, that cannot be mistaken by the most casual observer.

On my return to Aylesbury many years afterwards, I noticed a beautiful country residence on the banks of the river, surrounded by all the elegance of wealth and taste. Richly cultivated fields stretched themselves out on every side as far as the eye could reach; flocks of herds were scattered in every direction. It was a splendid scene, the sun was just setting behind the western hills—and while a group of neatly dressed children sported on the adjacent school house green, the mellow notes of the flute mingled with their noisy mirth. "There," said an old friend, "lives Harry Hemphill; that is his farm—those are his cattle; here is his school house, and these his own and some orphan children of his adoption which he educates at his own expense; having made a noble fortune by his industry and prudence, he spends his large income in deeds of charity—and he and Mary mutually give each other the credit of doing all this."

My heart expanded then—it expands still, when I think of them—and I pen their simple history in the hope, that as it is entirely imitable, some who read it will attempt to imitate it.—Emporium.

Singular Circumstance.—Early in the Spring of the present year, a gentleman of this town purchased a young mocking-bird, intending to rear it. It became very gentle, occasionally getting out of its cage, but would as often return. On the 10th of July, however, it made its escape, and was not again seen till Tuesday last. On that day, a mocking-bird was discovered on the wall of an old building fronting the house of the gentleman to whom we have alluded. No notice was taken of this circumstance in the first instance; but as the bird continued stationary, and appeared to gaze constantly on the house, one of the children was sent out to look at it. So soon as the child opened the gate and approached towards the old wall, the bird descended, and made immediately to the little boy, who took it up, carried it into the house, and the cage door being opened, the little warbler immediately returned to its roost, where it yet remains, apparently more happy and contented than when it had its freedom.

Quere to Dr. Mitchell.—Was this bird urged to return into slavery, from finding it difficult to procure subsistence, (for it had fallen off in flesh very much,) or did it, by reason or instinct, anticipate the storm which succeeded on the next day, and which has created so much disaster around us?

Pet. Republican.

I think there is something very lovely in seeing a woman overcome those little domestic disquiets which every mistress of a family has to contend with, sitting down to her breakfast table in the morning with a cheerful countenance, and endeavouring to promote innocent and pleasant conversation among her little circle. But vain will be her amiable efforts at pleasure unless she is assisted by her husband and other members around; and truly it is an unpleasant sight to see a family when collected together, instead of enlivening the quiet scene with a little good humored chat, sitting like statues, as if each is unworthy the attention of the other. And then, when a stranger comes in, O dear, such smiles and animation, and loquacity.

Laughter.—A witty writer says, in praise of laughter—"Laughter has even dissipated disease and preserved life by a sudden effort of nature. We are told that the great Erasmus laughed so heartily at the satire by Reuchlier and Van Hutten that he broke an imposthume, and recovered his health." In a singular treatise on laughter, Joubert gives two similar instances. A patient being very low, the physician, who had ordered a dose of rhubarb, countermanded the medicine, which was left on the table. A monkey in the room, jumping up, discovered the goblet, and having tasted, made a terrible grimace. Again putting only his tongue to it, he perceived some sweetness of the dissolved manna, while the rhubarb had sunk to the bottom. Thus emboldened, he swallowed the whole, but found it such a nauseous potion, that after many strange and fantastic grimaces, he grinded his teeth in agony, and in a violent fury threw the goblet on the floor. The whole affair was so ludicrous, that the sick man burst into repeated peals of laughter, and the recovery of cheerfulness led to health."

Mail Guard.—The New Brunswick Freedonian says, the guard to attend the mail between New York and Philadelphia, commenced its duties on the 24th ult. and on the evening of the 27th he was taken into custody by the Marshal of that city, and after a hearing, committed to prison, on a charge of violently assaulting a citizen on the road, firing a pistol at him, and otherwise endangering his life. The defence of the guard was, that the mail was obstructed by the citizen, and for aught he knew about to be robbed. The guard was subsequently bailed.

Caution.—There are 20 dollar and 10 dollar Counterfeit Notes of the Bank of Virginia in circulation. By comparing them with the genuine notes, the difference is easily detected. The paper of the 20 dollar notes is of a yellowish cast; the engraving inferior, coarser and darker. The face of the female figure is badly executed. The words "Bank of Virginia" are placed in the Border on the right, instead of the left; and the word "Twenty" is placed in the left instead of the right hand border. They are dated on 25th March 1822.

The 10 dollar Counterfeits are also easily recognized on inspection. Both the paper and engraving are coarser. The dot over the i in the Cashier's name, is omitted in all that we have seen. Date 4th June, 1817.

Rich. Enq.

The late Freshet.—The late storm has been very disastrous to the south and west, and the fear is, that it has extended to the sea-board, though we have no tidings from that quarter as yet.—In this county, (Dinwiddie,) almost every mill-dam has been washed away, and a great many bridges have met the same fate. The Warrenton Reporter of Saturday speaks of the storm as being excessively violent, and states that many bridges and mills in that vicinity had been carried away by the current. The northern papers do not notice the storm; we are therefore in hopes that it has been partial in its operation.—Pet. Rep.

The wonderful effect of Mrs. LEIGH'S System for curing the natural defect of Stammering, was, on Friday last, most strikingly exemplified in Charleston, by Dr. De La Motta. A negro man, named Jack, well known in the City as a drayman, who was so much affected by this misfortune, as to render it distressing to witness his efforts to speak, was sent to the institution on Friday afternoon last—he was but a very short time under the instruction of the Doctor, when he returned to the gentleman who sent him, and to his utter astonishment, could speak as plainly, and with as little embarrassment or hesitation as any one who had never been thus afflicted. This surprising change in the short period of an hour or two, could hardly be realized by those who previously knew the man, many of whom were eagerly interrogating him upon the subject on Saturday morning, in the usual walks of his business.—Charleston Courier.

We copy the following advertisement from a recent number of Galignani's Messenger, an English newspaper, published in Paris.

"Marringes.—M. Brunet, known during a number of years for facilitating marriages, equally advantageous to the two sexes, and whose extensive relations with society, and sound discretion and delicacy, warrant the confidence reposed in him, begs to intimate that there are at present to Marry.—1. A young lady, aged 22, of a most agreeable countenance, having 300,000 francs. 2. One, aged 20, having 120,000 francs. 3. One having 150,000 francs. 4. One having 175,000 francs. Also, three widows, aged 25, 30, and 33, having 10, 15, and 25,000 francs of yearly income.—Apply to M. Brunet, No. 29, Rue de Seine, St. Germain. No letters received unless post paid.

An army of Sunday Scholars.—The American Sunday School Union embraces at the present time no less than

400 Auxiliary Societies,
3,132 Schools,
16,298 Teachers,
135,074 Scholars.

What an army has thus been collected in two years! But are there not at least one million more, that ought to be enrolled? and will not these be constantly growing worse while suffered to absent themselves from these schools of instruction?—West. Rec.

An Important Lottery.—It has been computed that, among 10,000 people, the average deaths will be one a day. If this computation be accurate, a person in common health has a daily risk of dying, which, compared with the chances of life, is in the same proportion as an unit bears to the number 9,999. This risk is seemingly so small that it commonly gives no alarm, and is scarcely thought of; whereas, if the same risk were placed on a different ground, so as to be seen in another light, it would be generally alarming. Suppose, for instance, that to-morrow morning a lottery were to be drawn of this kind: 9,999 white balls, and one black ball, should be thrown promiscuously into a box, and that 10,000 people, you and I among the number, should each put in a hand, and draw out a ball at random, and whoever chanced to draw the black ball should inevitably suffer death within 24 hours: I say, if we knew that such a lottery were to be drawn to-morrow morning, and we must take our chance, it would doubtless produce in us some serious apprehensions, and might probably interrupt our sleep to-night.

Wealth.—It is a foolish thing that without money one cannot either live as one pleases, or where and with whom one pleases. Swift somewhere says, that money is liberty; and I fear money is friendship too, and society and almost every external blessing. It is a great, though an ill-natured comfort, to see most of those who have it in plenty, without pleasure, without liberty and without friends.—Gray.

FOREIGN.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival of the ships Spartan, Edward Bonaffee, and Talma, from Havre, the New York Commercial has Paris papers to the 9th of September, and by the ship Cortes, from London, papers to the 8th, and a London Price Current of the afternoon of the 5th of September.

The editors have received a statement of the financial affairs of the Greek Committee in London, made to a meeting of the holders of Greek bonds, at the City of London Tavern, on the 4th of September. They perceive among the items of expenditure, that there have been remitted to the United States, for the building of two frigates about which there has been so much difficulty in New York, the sum of £155,000—equal to $768,888; and that the sum of £12,000 has been allowed to Gen. Lallemand, for one year's services—equal to $53,496—or more than twice the salary of the President of the United States! Who would not be a patriot at such a price! There is an item of £64,000 charged by Mr. Ricardo, for commissions. When this was read, it produced a shower of hisses. How would they have hissed, if they had heard that the patriots of New York had charged $25,000 each, for the rent of the lots on which the frigates were built—thus realizing for one year's rent, $40,000 more than the fee of the lots was worth!

Another disinterested patriot.—It is said that Mr. Bowering has realised £10,000 by his devotion to the Greek cause!

[These statements, so far as they relate to Gen. Lallemand, and the rent of the lots, are denied in the New York papers, and re-asserted.]

The ribbon business is now very good in England, and the silk business in general is said to be better than it was previously to the admission of foreign silks.

The Bristol Mercury says there is not the least sign of an improvement in the woollen trade. Goods are selling at prices truly distressing.

Lord Rodon has caused forty ejectments to be served upon his tenants in consequence of the part they took at the late election, in favor of the popular candidate.

One hundred guineas have been transmitted to the Committee for distressed printers, by Mr. Clement, the proprietor of the Chronicle and Observer newspapers.

Mr. Gallatin, our Minister at London, transacted business with Mr. Canning on the 31st of August.

According to the report of the best informed brokers, the situation of business, as regards London, and with the exception of very few articles, has very materially improved within the last six weeks. That improvement may be stated on most of the principal articles of colonial produce, at about 15 or 16 per cent.; in some cases perhaps more. The article which has been almost the last in receiving the new impulse given to commercial operations, is cotton.

Mr. Dix, a passenger in the Edw. Bonaffee, is bearer of a commercial treaty between the Kingdom of Denmark and the U. States. The London papers contain a copy of this treaty.

STATE OF THE COUNTRY.

Manchester.—We are even now unable to announce any such improvement of trade as will effect any improvement in the circumstances of the working classes. The goods' market, for the last three or four weeks, has been more animated than it was during the summer months; but the demand has, a very few instances excepted, occasioned no advance of prices, nor has it encouraged the manufacturers to give out work to the unemployed weavers, who consequently continue in a state of melancholy destitution. Such as have a legal claim for parochial relief, receive assistance, as liberal as the circumstances of the times will permit; and others, who have not a strictly legal claim, but who have long resided amongst us and borne good characters, are occasionally relieved by our humane and active overseers. But there are thousands, and tens of thousands, to whose assistance the law cannot, by even the most liberal construction of its beneficent spirit, be extended, and who are consequently enduring a distress the intensity of which it is impossible to imagine;—for every variety of wretchedness which the most active imagination could combine for the formation of one picture of exquisite misery, could not furnish such a scene as may be beheld in almost every cottage in the back streets of this town. —A gentleman on Wednesday last went into some of the streets between London road and Ancoats, wishing to behold with his own eyes the condition of the people whose misery he was willing to believe exaggerated. On his return from his melancholy search, he told us with expressions of horror, that he regretted the indulgence of his curiosity. "I wish I had not gone," said he "the wretchedness was too great, even to be seen."—He had seen houses with no other furniture than a truck covered with straw, on which the heart broken father sat, with a glazed eye, and a death like expression on his countenance, seemingly unconscious of the wailing and half naked children who lay around him. He had seen emaciated mothers, in whom the extreme of wretchedness had not extinguished hope nor slackened exertion, striving to soothe those starving, wailing children. For his own sake, he wished he had not seen it. How dreadful the experience of that misery the very sight of which is intolerable! There's little probability of their obtaining employment before next spring; the fund raised by subscription for their relief is exhausted; they have no legal claim on the parish funds; and winter with all its accumulated horrors is approaching. Our conviction is, that if prompt measures are not adopted, thousands will die of absolute starvation.

Paisly.—Another reduction from 30 to 40 per cent. in the price of weaving silk has been made by a silk-manufacturing house in Glasgow. It has caused considerable sensation in Paisly, where most of the fancy silk gauze is wrought. This reduction is to be lamented. It will preclude the possibility of the silk-weavers renewing their mountings, and if a revival of trade takes place, not a weaver will be found to engage at the silk branch. A determination not to starve seems to be manifested about Paisly. Gangs go into the potato fields, and fill bags with great coolness; and although they are distributed sometimes by the proprietors, and by their watchmen, yet they continue their nocturnal expeditions.

New York, October 16.

By the ships James Cropper and Birmingham, we have our regular files of London papers to the 15th ult., and annex all that is important in their contents.

The visit of Mr. and Mrs. Canning to France, is said to be purely one of friendship, to Lord and Lady Granville. Lord G. is the British Ambassador at Paris. There is nothing as far as we can perceive to warrant the belief of any immediate opening of the ports to foreign wheat. The cotton market was improving.

Mr. Gallatin had another interview with Mr. Canning, at his office in Downing-st. on the 11th ult., which lasted upwards of an hour.

Moore is engaged in writing the life of Lord Byron, to accompany a splendid edition of his Lordship's poems, to be published by Murray.

London, September 12.

The accounts from the different manufacturing districts of the country are almost unanimous in representing the state of trade as gradually improving; and we mentioned last week, that the quantity of cotton sold in this port during the last six weeks, almost doubled that sold in the preceding six. We therefore venture to hope that the country has passed the crisis of its sufferings, and that it is now returning, slowly indeed, but surely, to a state of prosperity. The improvement must of course be gradual, but it is so much the more likely to be permanent.

Belfast, (Ireland,) Sept. 11.

Shocking Affair.—Mr. Hunter, one of the Guards of the mail coach from Dumfries to Portpatrick, has just informed us that on passing through Glenluce on his way to Dumfries last night, he was told that the body of a bullock had been cast ashore some miles to the south of that place, and that the people who found it thought, from its fresh appearance, it might be safely cut up. It was so and divided among a number of families; but soon after eating of it, they all became excessively sick; one man had then died, and fourteen others were lying dangerously ill, and very faint hopes entertained of their recovery.

Liverpool, September 16.

Cotton Wool.—Although the import has been unusually large, viz. 25,781 bags, yet prices have been fully maintained, and in American descriptions, an advance of 1-8c has been given. The sales amount to 12,400 bags.

It is stated that some English Capitalists are about to establish a Bank at Havana, with a capital of upwards of 5,000,000 dollars.—They are authorized to loan money at an interest of ten per cent—to charge a quarter per cent. on deposites, and to loan on pledges of merchandize at an interest of one per cent. a month.

Letters from London, state that the house of Samuel Williams & Co. has made a dividend of four shillings on the pound.

A very voluminous and valuable work has lately been published in Paris; being a general, physical, and civil History of Europe, from the close of the 5th to the middle of the 18th century, in 18 volumes. The late Count de Lacepede, a peer of France, was the writer; and he is said to have been fully competent to this vast work, which occupied him many years.

The trial of the seventy-two deputies who voted the inability of Ferdinand to reign, in 1823, has finished. They are condemned to be strangled, and their property confiscated.

The British frigate Sybille, has lost 100 men killed and wounded, in an attack upon some Greek pirates, and was obliged to withdraw from the contest, and surrender a prize and some prisoners she had taken.

It is stated on authority of a letter from Toulon, dated the 18th of August, that a vessel with men and munitions, bound from Marseilles to Napoli, for the assistance of the Greeks, had been sunk by an Algerine cruizer, and all hands murdered.—N. Y. Amer.

West India Trade.—Upon this subject we find the following paragraph in the Baltimore American of Saturday:

"It is said that our newly appointed Minister to Great Britain, Mr. Gallatin, was at the last dates negotiating with the English government on the subject of the British order in council, relative to the interdiction of our trade with the British West India Islands; and letters received by the Leeds, mention that there was a strong probability that such an arrangement would be effected before the period of interdiction arrived, as would render this measure unnecessary."

It appears that the late intelligence from England has raised the price of Flour and Wheat in New York and Baltimore. In the former, wheat is quoted at $1, and Flour $5 25. The Price Current of the Baltimore Patriot quotes Superfine Howard Street Flour at $5 25; City Mills, standing quality, $4 87½ a 5; best white Wheat at 95 a 100 c. per bushel; red wheat at 95; Corn, white, 56 c. per bushel; yellow, 50 a 56 c.

In this City, Wheat and Flour have advanced handsomely; and it is believed that they are yet on the rise.—Rich. Enquirer.

Washington, October 19.

All the officers invited to this City by the Secretary of War, to form a Military Board, for digesting a system for the Militia, have arrived, with the exception of Gen. Cadwallader, of Pennsylvania, (who returned home some time ago) and Gen. McArthur, of Ohio. The Board will, therefore, proceed immediately, we presume, to the fulfilment of the interesting object of their visit.—Nat. Int.

The city of Mobile continued free from malignant fever, as late as the 19th ultimo.

Col. Brearley, the Agent of the Government for conducting such of the Creek Indians as may choose to emigrate beyond the Mississippi, left this city some days ago for Georgia. It is hoped that the additional instructions which he has received from the War Department for his own guidance, and the remonstrance which it is understood the Department transmitted through the resident agent to those Chiefs of the Nation who had opposed the emigration of their countrymen, (even forbidding it on pain of death.) will remove the obstacles which Col. B. encountered on his first visit, in carrying into effect the provisions of the Treaty, and the act of Congress respecting the emigration of the M'Intosh party.—Nat. Int.

New Jersey.—The Philadelphia Aurora says, "New Jersey has elected the Adams ticket for Congress. Dr. Holcombe, a friend to General Jackson, on both tickets, is the only exception."

Judge Rochester has resigned the Secretaryship of the Panama Mission, and accepts the nomination made at Herkimer.

N. Y. Enquirer.

From the Democratic Press.

A CARD.—Mr. Binns is happy to relieve the apprehensions of his kind-hearted friend, Major Noah, in relation "to the unfortunate gentleman, bit by the Jacksonians, at the late meeting in Philadelphia." He is not dead nor "has any symptoms of Hydrophobia made their appearance." Since Mr. Binns ascertained the deep interest taken by Major Noah, in this case, he has taken the necessary steps to ascertain precisely, the situation of the unfortunate person alluded to. The answer of his Medical attendant, this morning, was in these words—"The loss of blood, consequent upon the biting, has greatly abated the Jackson fever. And the symptoms of Military Mania, which were alarming, have entirely subsided."

The whole affair was badly managed. To have produced political effect, the man should have died from the Jackson bite, as many others have done on the field of honor. Gramercy! if the man had died, what a funeral the Adams men would have given him. Was he really bitten after all?

N. Y. Enq.

Notwithstanding the prohibition of the Court, the New York editors give a few columns daily of our court proceedings relative to the brokers and insurance offices. In the National Advocate, of Tuesday, we find the following statement:

"The mode of overdrawing in Wall street is this: A broker makes an arrangement with a cashier to a certain amount, say 5,000 dollars. If, at 3 o'clock, the broker's account is a few thousands overdrawn, and he has not money to make it up, he deposits his check, with collateral security, till next day. The securities may be foreign bills, specie, or others equally good. It is always understood, however, between the broken and the cashier, that the former is to be notified at the hour of three, if such a temporary loan is inconvenient to the bank. The interest of these loans is settled monthly, and several banks and brokers are in the habit of making such arrangements among themselves. It appears, also, that it is the constant practice of the Wall street brokers to overdraw between 10 and 3 o'clock—that is, they generally are a few thousands on the wrong side from 12 to ten minutes before 3 o'clock, when they make their final deposits for the day. Whoever cannot do that, or is out of favor with the cashier, or has no understanding with the bank, is considered a lame duck, and must waddle forthwith."

Lusus Naturæ.—We have this morning examined a young terrapin, caught yesterday at Staten Island, by Louis Shorke, and by him presented to Mr. Peale for the Parthenon Museum, which is a very great curiosity. Its circumference is about the size of a dollar, and it has two distinct heads, and but four legs, as usual. The heads and eyes are perfectly formed. But what appears more singular, is the fact, that they are endowed with different instincts, or intelligences: that is, there is no concert of action between them. One head often pulls one way, and the other another; and it is often a matter of some struggle in which direction the animal shall move. Sometimes one is the master, and sometimes the other; during which time the progress is slow. Now and then, however, when they "put their heads together," and have apparently the same object in view, they walk off with the ordinary speed of common terrapins. It is really a curiosity which will afford much gratification to naturalists.

Isaac B. Desha has been admitted to bail by Judge Henry O. Brown. His recognizance bond is for 1000 dollars—that of his two securities for the like sum. He left Cynthiana on the 24th ult. The Physicians had given it as their opinion that he could not recover from the effect of the wounds he some time ago inflicted on himself.

Common Drunkards.—A man and wife and four other men were arraigned last week at Springfield, (Mass.) on complaints of the Overseers of the Poor of that town against them as common drunkards. They all pleaded not guilty; but upon evidence, five of them were convicted and sentenced to the House of Correction. Let the good work go on.

New Corn is selling at Salisbury, in this State, by the quantity, at two dollars per barrel. Does this look like a famine in the land?

From the Raleigh Register.

Geology of the State.—In connexion with the lignite, is found an unusual variety of Potter's Clays, unequalled in quality by any observed elsewhere in the State. The texture is very fine, and the colours are grey, chocolate and yellow; and they are, for the most part, very tenacious and heavy. Ochres, yellow and red, with several intermediate shades of colour, are also met with, some of which afford a bright red or deep brown, on calcination, and might probably serve for a coarse kind of paint.

It has already been remarked, that the slates of this district are black and generally impregnated with coaly matter. They contain a considerable portion of lime, and are frequently traversed by small veins of limestone. The lime acts as a flux on the earthy ingredients; and on application of heat, the coaly matter is driven off, the slate turns of a light brown colour, and, at a common red heat melts into glass. It may be well worth an experiment to ascertain whether this slate will not answer well as a flux for the iron ores of Rockingham. These contain an unusual proportion of soapstone, and their reduction would be greatly facilitated by a good flux; and such, it appears probable, the mineral in question will prove to be.

At the Eagle Falls on Dan River, the same substance assumes a remarkably compact structure, losing its slaty character, and presenting to view large masses of a black rock, susceptible of division into blocks of any size. Indeed, in its structure it more resembles serpentine than slate; and since it effervesces slightly with an acid, the Professor took it at first to be a siliceous limestone, or black marble, and it does in fact receive a fine polish with comparative facility; but in its composition and fusibility, it exactly resembles the slate rocks with which it is associated.

Among these rocks it was expected beds of limestone would be found. Their presence might be conjectured from the calcerous mixtures and veins which appear in the slate; but this was expected, still more from the supposition that this was a part of a formation described by the celebrated geologist McClure, which he represents as passing through Virginia, and terminating within the border of this State—of which formation limestone is a constituent member. Volney, also in his travels through this country, mentions a narrow belt of rocks corresponding with these, which extend between the Potomac and the Roanoke, and embrace a very narrow bed of limestone only a few feet wide. These various reasons afford encouragement to search in this region for a substance so much needed as limestone is in all the counties eastward of Rockingham.

The narrow strip of Transition which McClure has represented as extending through Virginia, terminates, according to this high authority, at the Yadkin near the Pilot mountain. This fact, that able geologist and excellent observer, probably stated without the opportunity of a personal examination; for having crossed that section in various places, the Professor has never been able to discover a vestige of such a formation there. Cleveland, in copying McClure's Map, has fixed the southern extremity of the same formation at Salem; but its true place of termination, is at Germanton, twenty miles north of Salem, where its southern vertex is well defined, resting against a hill of Mica Slate. The occurrence of grey wacke and grey wacke slate, and siliceous slate in a distinct formation, which terminates in a wedge so near the places designated by the above authorities, while no sign of a similar formation occurs at either of those spots, leaves little room for doubt that this is the proper locality of the southern end of McClure's eastern transition.

We are requested to state that 850 counterfeit Bills, purporting to be the issue of the Bank of Cape Fear, are in circulation. From certain circumstances, we are led to apprehend, that they have originated in the neighborhood of Columbia, S. C. Persons unskilled in Bank Paper should be cautious in receiving Bills of the above denomination.

Wil. Recorder.

Melancholy Occurrence.—We regret that it devolves upon us, once more, to record a sad accident, which occurred in Oxford, on the 3d inst. Mr. John Usery, who resided within 6 miles of that place, while riding a race there, was unfortunately run against a tree, by the horse leaving the Track in an ungovernable state, which caused his almost immediate death. We learn that one leg and his collar bone was broke and his body dreadfully mangled. He has left a wife and 3 children to subdue the anguish inflicted by this premature death of an honest and industrious husband, parent and citizen.

COMMODORE PORTER.

A good deal has been said in the newspapers relative to a personal affront given by the President to Com. Porter. The National Journal gives the following account of the matter, which we think places the President in rather a sorry light, as regards temper and good breeding:—

"The facts are these, and the statement was repeatedly and substantially made while Commodore Porter was in this country, without being contradicted, as it is believed, by him in the minutest particular. Mr. Du Pont, a warm friend of Com. Porter, had prevailed on Commodore Porter to pay a visit to General Lafayette, then residing at the President's House. On reaching the door, the President's carriage was there, in which he and the General were about to ride. As Mr. Du Pont ascended the steps, the President and General came out. Commodore Porter being in the rear, was not at first seen, and the President advanced and shook hands with Mr. Du Pont. While thus engaged, the Commodore advanced, and the President, leaving Mr. Du Pont, passed the Commodore without speaking to him, and proceeded to his carriage, where he remained, until General Lafayette, perceiving he was waited for, left the gentlemen on the steps, and proceeded to the carriage, which he entered, and it drove off. He very naturally inquired of Mr. Adams the cause of the marked conduct he had exhibited to the Commodore, and was referred to a letter from Commodore P. which appeared in the National Intelligencer, declining an invitation to a dinner, which had been offered to him by the citizens of Washington. If the Editor will refer to that letter, he will find the reason why Mr. Adams, either in his personal character as friend of Mr. Monroe, or in his official character as the President of the United States, could not recognize in Commodore Porter a claim entitled to receive from him any act of courtesy or civility. General Lafayette, the author of the article in question, declared that he had been the means of bringing about a reconciliation between the Administration and Com. Porter, had been informed by the latter himself; and in this opinion all the gentlemen who were personal friends of the Commodore, at the time, concurred, at the time."

Freemasons.—We were in possession of the particulars relative to the recent transactions at Batavia, N. York, by which it appears that a Capt. Morgan, a Royal Arch Mason, who has been for many years composing and publishing on masonry, or rather in communicating the secrets and mysteries of that institution, and that Mr. Miller of Batavia agreed to publish them. Capt. Morgan was carried to jail by the sheriff on a charge of petit larceny—was tried, convicted, and then imprisoned for debt. The fact that he has been carried to jail, is all that is known where, as no account has been received of him. A number of citizens have petitioned the Governor to issue a proclamation offering a reward for his apprehension. The whole affair is mysterious.

On the whole, such seasonable interferences are productive of much solid benefit; they cool the blood, restore equanimity of temper, and probably prevent grief and funeral expenses. The young gentlemen are, on the whole, satisfied with the result.'

South Carolina.—Messrs Hamilton, Drayton, McDuffie, and Carter, are re-elected to Congress without opposition. Wm. D. Martin is elected by a majority of 300 votes over Mr. Govan; Warren R. Davis by a majority of 25 votes over Mr. Wilson; Wm. T. Nuckolls, in place of Mr. Gist, who declined; Starling Tucker and Thos. R. Mitchell, each by a large majority.

Norfolk.—The health officer reports 21 deaths during the week ending on the 15th, of which 10 were cases of yellow fever, among which were Mr. Jonathan F. Ross, of the firm of Ross & Vaughan, aged 27, and Mr. Richard S. Bowden, of the firm of Henop & Bowden, aged 22, both respectable merchants of that town.

The Law's uncertainty.—By a table published in the New York American, it appears that of 188 cases of appeals to the highest Courts of that State, the decisions of the lower Courts were reversed in 94 cases, affirmed in 93, and modified in 1.

Regulating the Town.—A prosecution has been commenced against several grown men, in Augusta, (Maine,) for offending against the good order of society, by taking down and misplacing, in the night time, signs, steps, &c., a species of fun, called, in this part of the country, "regulating the town."

Among the many theories of the present visionary era, we have heard of none worthy to be compared with that of Horatio Gates Spafford, of New York, (to bring down rain by firing cannon,) until a certain "Pythagoras," of Washington city, professed to have discovered the cause and the movements of the winds. His first prediction failed, as did that of Mr. Spafford; he has not given up the ghost, however, but again comes out as follows:

'Messrs. Gales & Seaton: We shall have a south wind until Monday the 16th instant, 10 o'clock, when the north-west wind that started from the pole on the 13th, will get here; but it will not last over 30 hours. On the 23d instant, we shall have a strong north-west wind, with cold and frost. It will last three days—and by the 28th we shall have a north-east storm, which will clear up on the 30th by a north-west wind that will drive all the snakes into winter quarters—So finishes October. PYTHAGORAS.

Washington, 14th Oct. 1826.'

The north-west wind due at Washington on the 23d, according to Pythagoras, arrived here on Saturday night last, the 21st.

Stammering.—Institutions for the cure of this unfortunate habit, are established in several parts of the country,—in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Charleston, Brunswick, Va., and perhaps elsewhere. It is astonishing what cures are performed; a few hours only being necessary to restore the most inveterate stammerer to the free use of his tongue. One instance, which occurred in Charleston, is mentioned on our first page. We have noticed many such. A writer in a northern paper states the following as the mode of operation. It is worth a trial.

'1. Keep the lungs full by frequent inhalations of air. The difficulty consists almost wholly in the attempt to speak while the lungs are partially exhausted.

'2. If the tongue adheres too closely, at first, to the roof of the mouth, place on it a ninepenny piece or a quarter of a dollar, as it may be found necessary, that the utterance may be more distinct.

'3. Being thus prepared, read a page of poetry, consisting of short lines, remembering to draw in the breath at the end of every line.

'By following this plan, in a short time, a radical cure may be effected. No instance of failure has come to my knowledge.'

MARRIED,

In Montgomery county, on the 28th ultimo, Thos. C. Dunn, Esq., member elect to the next General Assembly from that county, to Miss Edy Hearne.

DIED,

In this town, on Saturday morning last, Mr. John McGary, aged 21 years, late of Baltimore. He was buried with Masonic honors by the members of Phœnix Chapter and Phœnix Lodge No. 8.

COMMUNICATED.

Died, in this vicinity, on Sunday evening last, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, relict of Peter Robinson, Esq. of Bladen county, in the 68th year of her age. She was 45 years a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church; "a Widow indeed," a veteran of the cross, a mother in Israel. Respectable and amiable as a wife, mother, friend and neighbour; exemplifying in life, and much more in her peaceful and triumphant death, the power of the Gospel of the grace of God. The loss of her numerous relatives and friends, we have the fullest assurance, is her eternal gain.

The storm is hush'd, the dangers' past,
Life's toilsome voyage is o'er;
No more she hears the angry blast,
The troubled ocean's roar.

Hail happy soul! now wing thy flight,
Where glory beams on high;
Thy darkness now is chang'd to light,
Thou never more shalt sigh.

The fast sailing ship General Putnam, Captain Baldwin, came up last evening, in 27 days from Liverpool. To the politeness of Capt. B. we are indebted for Liverpool papers to the 20th, and London to the 18th September, both inclusive.

State of trade.—At Leeds, Huddersfield, York, Manchester, and Preston, under date of 16th of September, the report of the state of trade was encouraging, an obvious improvement having occurred.

Portugal, by all accounts, is in a state of tranquility.

The accounts from the Greeks are favorable; they having been successful in several small affairs, by land and sea, with their enemies.

Liverpool Cotton Market.

Monday, Sept. 18, 1826.—On Saturday we had but a moderate demand, and the sales did not exceed 1,300 bags; but, on Monday, buyers evinced more readiness to purchase at previous rates; and there being a greater disposition to speculate, there has been a considerable extent of business done, amounting, together, to 4,000 bags or upwards, of which, 2,000 have been taken by speculators, including 1,000 bags of Egyptian, at 7d per lb.

Lafayette Hotel.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

THE public are respectfully informed, that in consequence of the recent death of Mr. Clement Tracy, the subscriber, who has been employed in the management of the Lafayette Hotel, has assumed the superintendence of it.

This new and spacious building (which has been purposely erected at great expense, for a Hotel) is now in complete order for the reception and accommodation of

TRAVELLERS & BOARDERS.

Besides the advantage of a number of Rooms with single Beds, Fire places and Bells, the Hotel contains several handsome Drawing Rooms and Apartments, particularly suited for the private accommodation of TRAVELLING FAMILIES. Boarders with or without lodging can be accommodated.

THE FURNITURE and BEDDING are of the best quality and entirely new, and each Bed is supplied with a Moscheto Net. BATHING ROOMS are attached to the House, supplied with water from the Haymount Aqueduct. The BAR is richly supplied with a variety of the choicest Liquors, recently selected for it in the Northern Cities, by an experienced judge. LARGE STABLES are conveniently placed in the rear.

The Subscriber is determined to conduct the House in the most genteel manner; and no efforts shall be spared to render it every way worthy of a continuation of the patronage it has received.

POETRY.

LOVE'S LANGUAGE.

There's a language that's mute, there's a silence that speaks,
There is something that cannot be told;
There are words that can only be read in the cheeks,
And thoughts but the eyes can unfold.
There's a look so expressive, so timid, so kind,
So conscious, so quick to impart;
Though dumb, in an instant it speaks out the mind,
And strikes in an instant the heart.
This eloquent silence—this converse of soul—
In vain we attempt to suppress;
More prompt it appears from the wish to controul—
More apt the fond truth to express.
And oh the delights in the features that shine—
The raptures the bosom that melt,
When, blest with each other, this converse divine,
Is mutually spoken and felt.

WIT—From Young's Love of Fame.

What though wit tickle?—Tickling is unsafe,
If still 'tis painful, while it makes us laugh.
Who, for the poor renown of being smart,
Would leave a sting within a brother's heart?
Parts may be prais'd; Good nature is adored;
Then draw your wit as seldom as your sword,
And never on the weak—or you'll appear,
As there no hero, no great genius here.
As in smooth oil the razor best is whet,
So wit is by politeness sharpest set.
Their want of edge by their offence is seen,
Both pain us least when exquisitely keen.
The fame men give it for the joy they find—
Dull is the jester when the joke's unkind.

Register of Debates.

In the press, and will be published before the next Meeting of Congress,

GALES & SEATON'S

Register of Debates in Congress.

VOL. II.

This volume will contain—

1. A full report of the principal Debates and Incidents of the Session of Congress which has just closed, chronologically arranged.

2. An Appendix, containing a complete List of the Members of the two Houses, with the President's Message to Congress, and other leading State Papers.

3. A complete Copy of the whole body of the Laws passed during the Session.

4. A copious Index to all the matters contained in the volume.

The volume for this year will contain double the matter of the volume of last year, but will be afforded to subscribers at the price of Five Dollars. The number of extra large Brevier pages which it will contain is expected to exceed a thousand.

We shall not undertake to magnify the importance of a work of this description. We are more than content with the verdict which public opinion has passed upon the first volume. We will only add, that the second volume shall excel the first, in typographical execution as well as arrangement; an entire new type having been procured expressly for it.

August 2.

Fayetteville Academy.

THE Examination of the Students of this Institution will take place on the 22d inst., and the exercises recommence on the 10th July.

The Committee of Superintendance have the satisfaction to state, that the prospects of this Institution are as flattering at this time as they have been at any former period. The Rev. Mr. Hollister, a gentleman who bears the highest testimonials, both of his education and experience, has been engaged as the Principal of this Academy; he will take charge of the Classical Department, as well as exercise a general controul over the institution. He will be assisted by Mr. Gay, with whose excellent qualifications the Committee have had an opportunity of becoming acquainted, together with such other Tutors in the English Department, as may be found neceseary. The Female Department will be under the direction of Mrs. Hollister, and will no doubt, be found to be one of the best Schools for young Ladies in the Southern States.

The advantage of having an Institution of this kind, where the manners are to be formed as well as the intellect improved, under the influence and example of a respectable and well regulated community, the uniform healthiness of this town, for several years past, and the peculiarly comfortable apartments, erected at considerable expense for the accommodation of the School, with the cheapness of tuition and board, altogether, warrant the Committee in recommending the Institution to the notice of the public, particularly to those of the low country. The central situation of Fayetteville, and the facilities furnished by the mails, affording opportunities of correspondence, almost every day in the year, with all parts of the country, is a consideration which will not be lightly esteemed by parents who may be under the necessity of sending their children abroad for their education. Boarding can be had in many of the respectable families in town, at a moderate price.

It may be well, likewise to state, that the conduct of youth sent to this Institution, particularly those from abroad, will be carefully observed, as well out of the School as within it, and a proper degree of attention will be paid to their habits, manners and morals, as well as their scholastic education.

JOHN MACRAE,
Secretary of the School Committee.
